

VIDEO

of the week

I would venture to say that there are few parents of teenagers who have not had at least one “heated discussion” about their use of video games. Fear not! Maybe our teenagers have the right idea! Just recently there was a report on a major US news network that the Federal Aviation Administration is looking to fill 4000 job vacancies, and their target for filling them.....GAMERS! That opened my eyes, and then, University of Portsmouth sends out a link to a new degree program in Esports!

This is a first-of-its-kind BSc \(Hons\) in Esports Coaching and Performance via distance learning where you will have the chance to do a sandwich year working in an established esports organisation, setting up your own esports business, or studying esports performance overseas. When you graduate, you'll be ready to make an impact in the pro gaming world as a professional esports coach, within competitive organisations, with league developers, as a freelance coach or consultant, or by running your own teams.

Looking deeper into what is available at University of Portsmouth, there is this <https://www.port.ac.uk/study/courses/bsc-hons-computer-games-enterprise>

University of Portsmouth is worth a serious look to be ahead of the curve on the happenings in the world of Esports and Gaming!

Click title
to watch

Gaming Classes In London

Why choose the University of Portsmouth